

ANCIENT HISTORY A LEVEL

Why Study This Course?

- You are interested in the study of History but want something a little different.
- You find the worlds, cultures and people of Ancient Greece and Rome fascinating.
- You like to take part in discussion and debate.
- You like writing essays and have good research skills.

What You'll Study

Ancient History is the study of Ancient Rome from original sources: what these ancient civilisations had to say for themselves.

You will study the development and changing nature of Ancient Greece - from the Persian invasion to the rise of Sparta and Athens.

There will also be a more in-depth look at the society of Ancient Sparta - what made them feared and unique in the ancient world.

You will also study the changing features of the Roman Emperors: some of the most powerful but unstable people in history and how their will impacted the world.

Career Progression

This is an academic subject and is looked on favourably by top UK Universities. It also opens opportunities in a range of careers including law, journalism, archaeology ...in fact almost anything!

Why Study Ancient History at PWSFC?

Why I chose Ancient History

Ancient History at Parrs Wood Sixth Form is an enthralling subject which combines ancient history and classical literature. The subject gives us a great insight into the origins of civilisation and raises many ideas and themes that are still important today. The enthusiasm of the teachers only adds to what is a fascinating subject."
